The cost of the hearings could reach $17,400, according to Bart Lagomarsino, district administrator of secondary schools.

The district expects to collect fees for 8,489 new houses that will bring children to 11 already crowded schools. Hardest hit is Lichen Elementary School, where 930 students are expected next year. The facility

The board voted 3-2 to hire two people, at a cost of $21,770, to handle student funds. In a heated exchange with board member Charles Watkins, fellow trustee David Doerr said the salaries would cost more than any money lost through misuse.

Watkins has charged that funds have been misused and an investigation of the alleged theft of $13,000 in student funds at Mesa Verde High School has been underway for several weeks.

Danville Woman Latest Victim Of Capital's East Area Rapist

Sacramento's East Area rapist struck for the 43rd time early Monday when he attacked a 33-year-old mother of two in her home in Danville, police said Tuesday.

Sgt. Larry Crompton of the Contra Costa County Sheriff's Department said "there is no doubt" the attack was by the same man who began a series of rapes in Sacramento's East Area June 18, 1976.

The rapist crawled through the only unlocked window in the home about 4 a.m. and stayed approximately an hour, police said.

Two small children in the home remained asleep as the intruder went to the bedroom where their parents were sleeping.

Crompton said the intruder, who was masked and wore gloves, made the woman tie her husband up. She was then forced into another room and raped.

As he has in his other East Bay area attacks, the rapist Monday selected a residence near a freeway. The home is three blocks from where he raped a woman Dec. 9. His last attack was in Fremont on April 4.

The rapist has struck previously in Sacramento, Davis, Stockton, Modesto, Concord and San Ramon. The attacker's first 21 rapes occurred in Sacramento's East Area.
